SECRETARY

Dr Martin Parkinson PSM
 Secretary
 Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet
 PO Box 6500
 CANBERRA ACT 2600

Dear Dr Parkinson Marth

I refer to your email of 27 October 2016 (Media – Wikipedia) referring to press reports about public servants allegedly using Government ICT systems to change Wikipedia references. In the email, you ask Secretaries to review ICT policies to ensure staff are aware of their responsibilities around the appropriate use of government information systems; and for those Departments specifically mentioned, conduct of a review of the matters as a priority.

The media articles highlight a change made by a member of the Department of Agriculture and Water Resources to Minister Barnaby Joyce's Wikipedia page. An investigation s47E(d) s47E(d)

The department has sound and appropriate policies in place that detail the responsibilities of staff using ICT equipment and information services and systems. These policies include clear guidelines for acceptable personal use of equipment and systems and reinforce the applicability of the APS Values and Code of Conduct on all transactions using department resources. Department staff awareness of these responsibilities is maintained through completion of annual mandatory training courses. Additionally, a logon banner screen forms acknowledgement of the department's ICT Security Policy and the individual's responsibilities for appropriate use each time a staff member logs onto the department network.

A review of staff usage of ICT services and information systems has not identified any instance of inappropriate use or activity by department staff.

Yours sincerely

s22

Dear s22

Please see Frances's response to Martin, following. Let me know if you would prefer for her to send it to him directly.

s22

MESSAGE BEGINS

Dear Martin,

In response to your email of 27 October 2016 about edits made to Wikipedia, I confirm that I have reviewed DFAT policies in regard to the responsibilities of staff for the appropriate use of government information systems.

DFAT policies and guidance make clear that staff should not use our IT systems, including to access the internet, in a way that could risk the reputation, integrity or security or disrupt operations of the department or Government. While limited and appropriate personal use of DFAT ICT systems is permitted, our policies and guidance are clear that official resources must be used for a proper purpose.

s47E(d), s47F

I am advised that it would not be technically possible to prevent staff from editing Wikipedia entries, without blocking access to Wikipedia. However, we will issue a reminder to staff of their obligations and responsibilities under existing policies and guidance when using DFAT IT systems, including accessing the internet. We will be specific that staff should in general not make edits to Wikipedia, other than in limited circumstances when it might be appropriate and when such action has been approved by a senior officer.

In that enquiry he asked questions regarding what appeared to him to be anonymous edits on the Wikipedia website allegedly made by a person or persons in the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet (PM&C). Similar enquiries were sent by Mr Massola to the following departments: Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade; Department of Defence; and Department of Health.
2. On 26 October 2016, PM&C replied to Mr Massola with the following statement: "The relevant departmental secretaries have been asked to investigate as a matter of urgency, and will report back within a week. If there has been a breach of IT policy it will be treated very seriously".
3. Mr Massola appears to have linked the anonymous edits on Wikipedia by using the website, www.wikiwatchdog.com which records the edits made on the Wikipedia website by recording the internet protocol (IP) address of the user who made the edits.
4. It appears that Mr Massola has formed his assertion by using the wikiwatchdog webpage to locate edits made on the Wikipedia website through the IP address assigned to www.dpmc.gov.au. Mr Massola states one of the IP addresses linked to edits made on the Wikipedia website was 124.47.132.150.

s33, s47E(d)

c. that there does not appear to be any suspected breach of the APS Code of Conduct, or breaches of departmental policies or procedures by any PM&C employee.

8. In relation to 7 (a), Mr Massola states that the edit to the article originated from IP address 124.47.132.150, s33, s47E(d)

s33, s47E(d)

9. In relation to 7 (b) and (c), Mr Massola's enquiry referred to 396 articles edited by PM&C employees. s33, s47E(d)

s33, s47E(d)

ATTACHMENTS

ATTACHMENT A EMAIL MEDIA ENQUIRY FROM MR JAMES MASSOLA, CHIEF POLITICAL REPORTER - FAIRFAX MEDIA, DATED
25 OCTOBER 2016

ATTACHMENT B PEOPLE BRANCH SUMMARY REPORT, DATED
2 NOVEMBER 2016

Good afternoon media team,

I have some questions about what appear to be anonymous edits to wikipedia by a person or persons in the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet.

On November 23, 2015, it appears someone using a computer in the Department made edits to the "Gordon de Brouwer" wikipedia page.

These changes altered the page to delete statements including that Dr de Brouwer:
"chaired the 2008 whole-of-government committee that devised the Rudd Government's climate change policies, including the Energy Efficient Homes Package, that Dr de Brouwer has "a pattern of self-serving backgrounding of journalists".

and that "Despite de Brouwer being a renowned climate change believer, known climate_change_denial climate change sceptic, Maurice Newman, advocated for de Brouwer's appointment."

In total, 396 pages have been edited by DPMC staff anonymously, including 47 edits on the silver perch (Bidyanus bidyanus) page and 12 more on the Murray Cod page.

One of the IP addresses used that made these changes was 124.47.132.150

Can you please confirm that this is a DPMC IP address?

What is the department's policy on anonymous editing of wikipedia?

Does DPMC believe it is appropriate for member of staff to have made these changes to the De Brouwer page?

Does DPMC consider this a good use of public servants' time?

The information about these edits have been gathered from the wikiwatch website, which monitors anonymous edits of Wikipedia see here:

<http://wikiwatchdog.com/?#!search/en/www.dPMC.gov.au/2650424>

I am planning on publishing at 12.30pm tomorrow and require a response by then.

sincerely,

James Massola
