My apologies. I missed this email. And I suppose I have now missed the opportunity to comment on the proposed release of documents. If that is not the case (i.e., if it is not too late),

s.47C

Of course, if I am too late, then I am too late.

That was not clear to me previously. Given this is a document containing s.47C
[REDACTED] can we please have an opportunity to consider whether we have any comments to make on behalf of the Prime Minister before you finalise your decision.

Mr MacDowell

OK. Please simply confirm that the second dash point to the second dot point in the first attachment will not be released.
