

TALKING POINTS

Being socially included means all Australians have the right to learn, work, be part of their community and be heard on issues which matter to them and your work contributes to this objective.

